ANNOUNCEMENTS

For This Is My Body Starting this weekend Queen of Angels will be offering low-gluten host during Communion. If you wish to receive one you need to stand in Father's line as he will be the only one distributing them. Upon approaching Father let him know your request and you will receive one.

Adult Faith Formation Adult Confirmation Prep and RCIA classes will begin Wednesday, October 27. Please contact the parish office if you are interested. If you already signed up, expect to hear from us soon if you haven't already.

All Saints' Day Monday, November 1, is All Saints' Day and is a Holy Day of Obligation. However, Bishop McElroy has dispensed the obligation for this year. Queen of Angels will be reciting the Rosary at 7:30 AM. Please consider joining us.

All Souls' Novena If you wish to include your deceased loved ones in the All Souls' Day Novena, there are envelopes at the entrance to the church. Please write the names of your loved ones on the envelope and drop it in the collection basket or bring it to the office. Deadline to return your envelope is October 29. The novena will start on Tuesday, November 2.

Commemoration of All Souls' Month Tuesday, November 2, is All Souls' Day. We will continue to observe this day by displaying our deceased loved ones' photos in the church for remembrance during the month of November. However because of space constraints, we can only display those photos of deceased loved ones that have passed away in 2020-2021. If you have a photo of someone you wish to have displayed in the church, please make a copy no larger than "4 x 4" and bring it to the parish office no later than Friday, October 29. For further information, please contact the parish office at 619.445.2145.

Knights of Columbus Unfortunately due to technical difficulties, the 3rd Annual Knights of Columbus Cornhole Tournament has been rescheduled for 2022. Thanks for your understanding.

World Mission Sunday Next Sunday, October 24, is World Mission Sunday. We celebrate this day by remembering our baptismal call to bring the Gospel to all! Pope Francis invites the entire Church to support mission dioceses in Uganda, Philippines, and in remote regions of Latin America where priests, religious and lay leaders serve the world's most vulnerable communities. Please keep the Pope's missions in your prayers and be generous in next week's collection for the Society for the Propagation of Faith.

Faith Formation

PLEASE TAKE NOTE, DATE CHANGE AND MARK YOUR CALENDAR

On October 31, 2021, there will be a very important meeting regarding the upcoming Faith Formation Program that will begin on Sunday, November 7, 2021.

This meeting is for all for Parents, Children and Teachers and it is imperative that everyone attend.

WHEN: October 31, 2021

TIME: 9:15am – 10:15 am

WHERE: The Parish Hall

Any questions, please call the church office at 619-445-2145,
Monday-Friday, 9:00 am-2:30 pm.

Donuts, Coffee, Juice & Water will be available

(We highly encourage all who have not been vaccinated to please wear a mask during this meeting and subsequent Faith Formation Classes. We are not requiring parents to sign anything at this time and we are not asking for proof of vaccination. Also, in consideration and respect, we ask that if your child has a slight cough/cold you refrain from having them attend class until all symptoms are gone. Thank You.)

PASTOR'S PAGE

Friends,

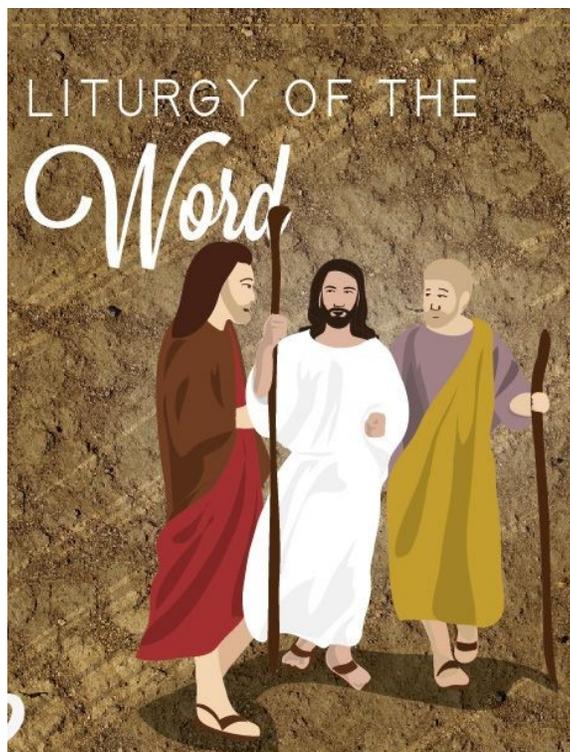

As we continue to walk-through the parts of the Mass, this weekend we are hearing about the Liturgy of the Word. The Liturgy of the Word on Sundays begins with an Old Testament reading (though during Easter the first reading is taken from the New Testament), a psalm, a New Testament reading, and a Gospel reading. Each reading is very important. Although there is sometimes a heretical misconception that the God of the Old Testament is, or at least acts differently than, the God of the New Testament, when we hear the Old and New Testaments proclaimed right after each other, we realize just how false that idea is. In fact, the way the current lectionary (the book that we get our readings from) is laid out, the Old Testament reading is typically lined up with the Gospel reading, so we can see how Jesus fulfills the Old Testament rather than abolishes it. The readings also usually have a unifying theme, or at least, most of them do (the second reading, taken from the New Testament, is often the proverbial odd man out). Sometimes it is hard to figure out what the unifying theme or motif tying the readings together is, so when that is the case, I recommend looking at the psalm. Frequently the psalm, which we sing together in response, can be an effective hermeneutical key for the readings (hermeneutics refers to the methods we use to interpret Scripture). Hopefully we are able to see through all of the readings the bright continuity of God's eternal plan to save us as it plays out in the Scriptures, and especially through the words and actions of Jesus Christ in the Gospel.

All of which just goes to show that special attention can and must be given to the Gospel. In the Gospel, we hear the words that Jesus actually spoke during his life and ministry repeated to us. We hear how Jesus fulfills every promise that God made to his people in the Old Testament. And we see how Jesus establishes His Church, using ordinary, broken human beings like you and me, so that there would be a place for us in His Kingdom too. The Gospel, which comes from an ancient word which means "good news," is just that: the good news that Jesus has saved us, is saving us, and will save us. There is a timelessness and a beauty in the words of Christ which, if we have ears to hear, we can receive, just like his first disciples.

The final two parts of the Liturgy of the Word are the Creed (which takes place after what is hopefully a good, or failing that, at least a short homily from the priest or deacon) and the Prayers of the Faithful. Both deserve mentioning. What we call the Nicene Creed is actually the Nicene-Constantinopolitan Creed, written and codified at the Council of Constantinople in AD 381. If you think that was a long time ago, consider that the original Nicene Creed, which was the template for the Creed we still use today and which shares many of the same words, was written in AD 325 at the Council of Nicaea. The Creed is, simply, our statement of faith. There is nothing contained in it which is not a necessary part of the Christian faith. That is not to say that it contains every necessary thing in the deposit of the faith, but everything there is necessary if you want to claim the name "Christian." Even the word catholic towards the end is necessary (catholic, means "universal," so with the lower case c, this is essentially stating that the Church is for everyone). When the Incarnation of Jesus is mentioned – "by the power of the Holy Spirit, he was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man" – we perform what liturgically is called a "profound bow," that is, a bow at the waist, before resuming our previous standing posture. We do this out of reverence for the mystery of the Incarnation, which is the means by which Jesus entered the world to save us from our sins. We close the Liturgy of the Word by offering up our prayers and petitions to the Heavenly Father. Here we are united, not only with each other, but also with all of the angels and saints in heaven who are praying with us, as we beg for God's mercy, love, and blessing upon us, our families, our communities, and ultimately the world. It is also the perfect bridge to what we will talk about next week, the Liturgy of the Eucharist, because it is precisely these requests, along with our paltry gifts, that we will offer on the altar of God as the Sacrifice of the Mass continues.

Hanging on every word that proceeds from the mouth of God,

Fr. David
