Presentation of the Lord

Question:

Luke's Gospel is the only one to mention the Presentation of the Lord in the Temple. What is Luke trying to communicate here and what connection does it have with Mary?

Answer:

February 2 is exactly forty days after December 25, the nativity of Jesus. Jewish law (Ex 13:2, 12) dictated that Jesus, as the firstborn, be consecrated to God. This was done by the parents as they presented their Son in the Temple.

Jewish law further specified (Lv 12:2-8) that a mother was ritually impure after giving birth, and that she had to wait a set period of time (forty days for a boy) before she was to offer a sacrifice to the Lord for purification.

The convergence of these two Jewish regulations occasions Luke's account of both the Presentation of the Lord and the Purification of Mary. These days the liturgical emphasis is more on the Presentation of Jesus. Luke highlights the role of Simeon and Anna, two righteous Jews who recognized Jesus as the long-awaited Messiah and praised God for being able to see and experience such a marvel in their lifetimes.

Simeon's prayer concerning the special role of Jesus states that Jesus is "a light for revelation to the Gentiles." This phrase eventually originated the custom of blessing candles on this day which were to be used in the ceremonies, rituals, and processions throughout the church year. Thus February 2 is also known as Candlemas Day. This day is indeed a rich feast to be savored.

7 Bible Verses Every Child Should Learn

By Clement Harrold
January 3, 2025

When I work with young children I like to remind them that they possess a special superpower: their memory! Although children are notorious for “forgetting” to unload the dishwasher or tidy their rooms, the truth is that God has blessed them with an amazing capacity to learn things by heart. Much like their body, the mind of a child is flexible and resilient, just waiting to be filled with facts, dates, prayers, poems, and psalms.

Kids are quick to commit things to memory, and the things they internalize often stay with them for a lifetime. This means there is immense value in helping our children to cultivate what the journalist Peter Hitchens describes as “a mind furnished with beauty.” It’s worth remembering, too, that the practice of teaching beautiful things to our children has a rich biblical pedigree, as seen in the famous Shema prayer which the Jewish people recite to this day:

With this in mind, what follows are seven great Scriptures worth teaching diligently to your children—not to mention grandchildren, godchildren, nieces, and nephews! All quotations are taken from the Revised Standard Version Catholic Edition.

7 Bible Verses for Kids

Take delight in the Lord, and he will give you the desires of your heart. (Psalm 37:4)

Thought to have been written by King David in his later years, Psalm 37 speaks powerfully of the trust which believers ought to have in the Lord even when evildoers seem to prosper.

See that you do not despise one of these little ones; for I tell you that in heaven their angels always behold the face of my Father who is in heaven. (Matthew 18:10)

Jesus urges His listeners not to despise the childlike qualities of the “little ones” who have become His disciples and who enjoy the protection of their mighty guardian angels.

For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. (John 3:16)

Jesus’s famous words to Nicodemus are a reminder that the infinite love of the Blessed Trinity is the ultimate reason for the Incarnation and the Cross.

Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect. (Romans 12:2)

Near the end of his longest and most theologically complex epistle, St. Paul shifts to a practical call to arms, exhorting his audience to uncover the will of God by rejecting a worldly way of thinking.

Let no one despise your youth, but set the believers an example in speech and conduct, in love, in faith, in purity. (1 Timothy 4:12)

St. Paul instructs the young Church leader Timothy to brush off the criticisms of people who look down on him, while at the same time excelling in personal virtue and sanctity.

The Lord is my helper, I will not be afraid; what can man do to me? (Hebrews 13:6)

Originally found in Psalm 118:6, this verse appears in Hebrews in the context of living a life of radical Christian virtue and resisting an excessive attachment to money.

For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome. (1 John 5:3)

The First Epistle of John drives home the fact that law and love are not contradictory but rather complementary realities.
