PASTOR'S PAGEDIVINE MERCY SUNDAY

Naturally speaking, God is known by His perfections just as any artist is known by his works, so the Creator can be known by His creation [Rom 1:19]. From the creation of the universe we can see that God would have certain qualities or 'perfections'. There is what is called the absolute perfections of God, absolute meaning that only God can have them. The absolute perfections of God are five: 1) Self-Existence [not created]; 2) Simplicity [does not have parts]; 3) Infinity [unlimited]; 4) Eternal [always was and will be]; and 5) Immutable [does not change].

It is interesting to see that these absolute perfections of God are found in the Divine Revelation of the Old and New Testaments. For instance, in the book of Exodus [3:13]: "But," said Moses to God, "when I go to the Israelites and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' if they ask me, 'What is his name?' what am I to tell them?" God replied, "I AM Who AM." Then He added, "This is what you shall tell the Israelites: I AM (YAHWEH) sent me to you." Here, God reveals Himself to Moses as the "Eternal Present"; that is, as eternal, immutable, and infinite. So we have an incidence (among many) where Divine Revelation (Faith) is 100% in compliance with nature (reason). This agrees with The Church's official stance that faith and reason cannot contradict one another.

In addition to the absolute perfections of God, which only God can have as God, there are also what are called the relative perfections of God. Relative, meaning that these are qualities or 'perfections' which are manifested in His relation to creatures through analogy. So, we share in these perfections as we share in a participation with God through nature, and above all grace. Now, of the relative perfections of God, it is impossible for one to know all the perfections found in the Being of God that we participate in, however, there are chiefly five: 1) Wisdom, (e.g. Omnipotence); 2) Goodness; 3) Providence, e.g. God as Cause of all things; 4) Justice; and 5) Mercy, (e.g. Patience & Love).

Interestingly enough, again, as in the absolute perfections of God, we find in Sacred Scripture a correspondence. For instance, Our Lord tells us directly and explicitly of the importance of seeking the Creator in created things, through these perfections of God. Jesus speaks of this directly: "Be Ye perfect as your Heavenly Father is Perfect." (Mt 5:48). What should be most important for the Christian is that among all these relative perfections, Our Lord Jesus singles out one – one – as the fountainhead from which flows all that comes to us in this life, and which God wishes to be praised for all eternity. This perfection is the mercy of God. Hence Jesus states: "Be Ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is Merciful." (LK 6:36). This is following from the Old Testament Revelation of the Nature of God as a Being that is Mercy Itself. In The Book of Exodus it says:

Having come down in a cloud, the LORD stood with him (Moses) there and proclaimed His name, "LORD." Thus the LORD passed before Moses and cried out, "The LORD, the LORD, a merciful and gracious God, slow to anger and rich in kindness and fidelity, continuing His kindness for a thousand generations, and forgiving wickedness and crime and sin" And Moses at once bowed down to the ground in worship.
[Ex 34:5-8]

So we have another incidence (among many) where Divine Revelation (Faith) is 100% in compliance with nature (reason).

In every book of the Bible – both Old and New Testaments – the Mercy of God is mentioned repeatedly, but most often, and most eloquently, in the Book of Psalms. In the total number of 150 Psalms there are 55 Psalms especially praising this divine perfection, and in Psalm 135 each verse repeats as its refrain, "½for His Mercy endures forever". In the Bible as a whole there are over four hundred passages in which the Mercy of God is given direct praise; in the Book of Psalms, there are a hundred and thirty; and in innumerable other texts His Mercy is hymned indirectly.

In fact, in the Old Testament, God was approached through what was called the 'propitiatory' or "mercy seat", which was the golden covering of the Ark of the Covenant, regarded as the resting place or throne of God [Heb 9:5]. In the New Testament Jesus makes mercy the very hallmark of the Christian:

"You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, so that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven; for he makes his sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. For if you love those who love you, what reward have you? ¼ You, therefore, must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect." [Mt 5:43ff]

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We can obviously see therefore that the Mercy of God – and the mercy of the Christian – is to be extended to all people unconditionally, not just Christians or to those who do good for us. Finally, we see that The Church reinforces the words of Christ in the teaching that ALL CHRITIANS are called to the height of perfection in what is referred to as the Universal call to Holiness (perfection):

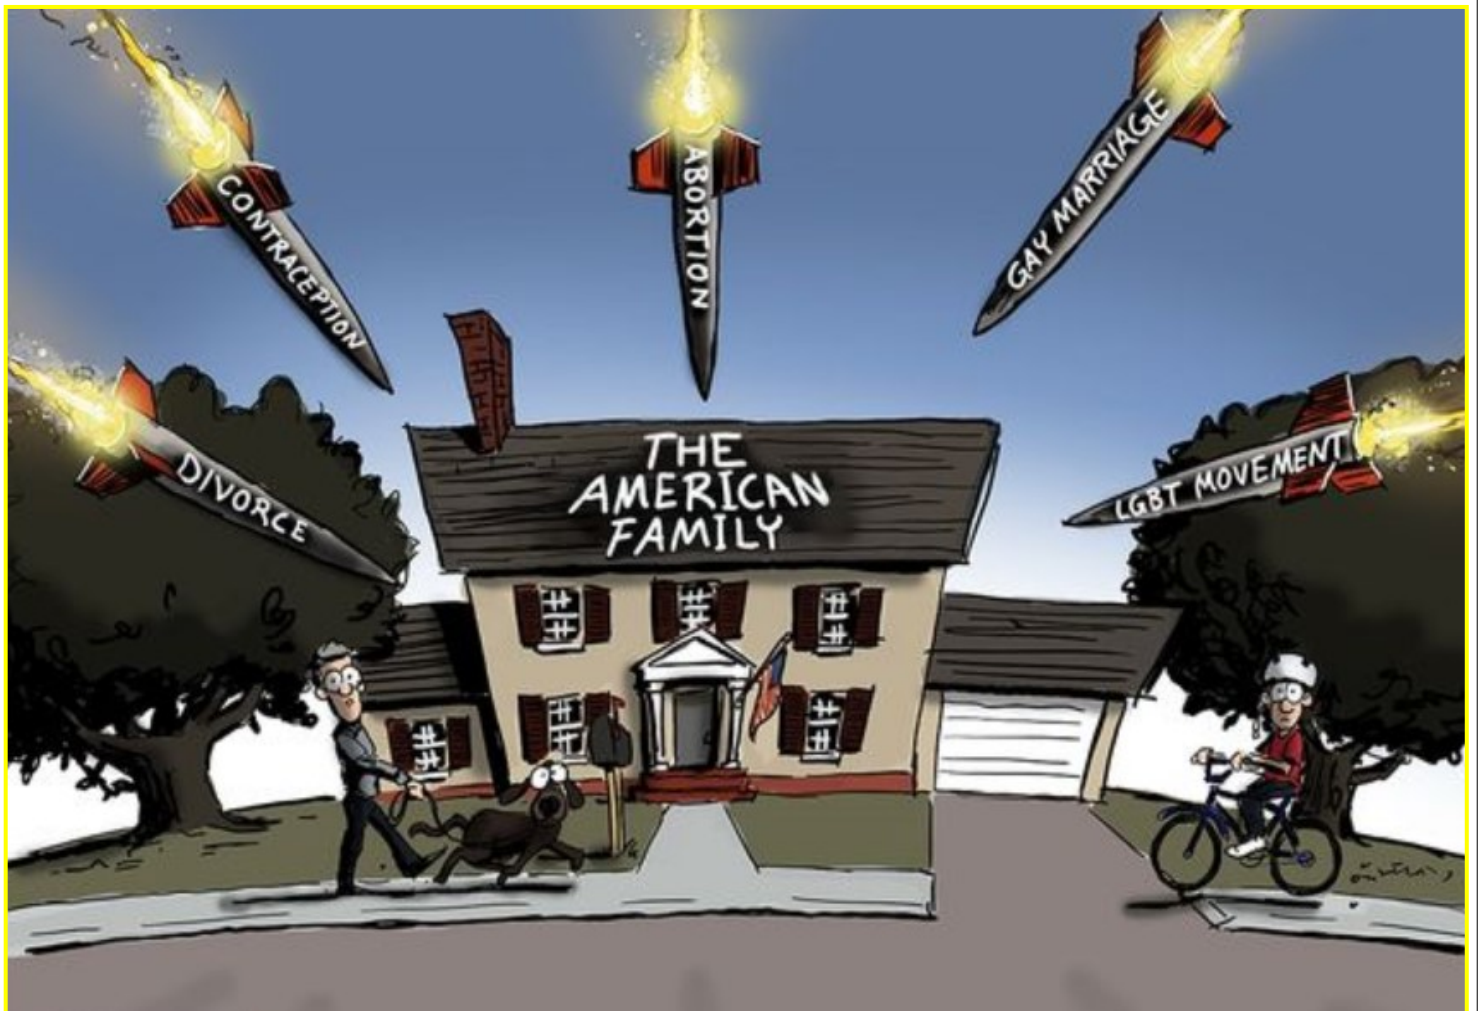

"All Christians in any state or walk of life are called to the fullness of Christian life and to the perfection of charity." [Lumen Gentium 40] All are called to holiness: "Be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect."
CCC 2013

So let us strive for the Christian perfection of charity and be merciful as our Heavenly Father is Merciful to all.

(Based upon the book of Father Michael Sopoko, S.T.D. "The Mercy of God in His Works")

Divine Sunday Blessings,

Father Tim
